

Bank Street Park

Shaping a new waterfront park at Bank Street

The NSW Government invites you to help shape a new waterfront park at Bank Street

Have your say on a new waterfront park for Bank Street by sharing your priorities for the future of this special place

The new one-hectare park will surround the southern pylons of the Anzac Bridge. The site provides a rare chance to create a new waterfront park that will celebrate its First Nations history, iconic harbourside location and maritime history.

Bank Street Park also presents an exciting opportunity to consider the future use of existing buildings on the site and their role in creating an inclusive and iconic waterfront destination.

Feedback received during this consultation process, together with feedback from previous consultations, will help inform a design brief for Bank Street Park to ensure that it reflects long-term community needs and aspirations.

Get involved today:

We welcome your feedback with consultation open from 22 August through to 25 September 2022.
